It's the opposite of literal language, which means exactly what it says. Figurative language is a tool used in poetry, literature, and everyday speech to make language more engaging and thought-provoking.

Common Types of Figurative Language

Simile

A simile is a comparison between two unlike things using the words "like" or "as." For example, "Her smile was as bright as the sun." This comparison helps us understand the intensity of her smile by relating it to something we're familiar with.

Personification

Personification gives human qualities to non-human things. For example, "The wind whispered through the trees." The wind can't literally whisper, but this phrase helps us imagine the sound of the wind in a more relatable way.

Hyperbole

Hyperbole is an exaggerated statement used for emphasis or effect. For example, "I've told you a million times!". No one has literally been told something a million times, but this phrase emphasizes the frequency of the statement.

Onomatopoeia

Onomatopoeia is the use of words that imitate the sounds they describe. For example, "The bees buzzed around the hive." The word "buzzed" mimics the sound of bees.
