The Shih Tzu is widely accepted to have originated in the Himalayan region, particularly Tibet, before being developed further in China. Selective breeding in imperial China focused on enhancing the Shih Tzu's distinctive physical traits: a dense double coat, short muzzle, and a friendly temperament. These characteristics were carefully preserved to maintain the breed's appearance and suitability for palace life.

The controlled breeding environment ensured that the Shih Tzu remained an exclusive companion, with limited gene flow from other breeds. This exclusivity underscores the breed's cultural and aristocratic significance.
